ANNUAL REPORT 2019
Celebrating 55 years of making a difference in your community every day.
A LETTER FROM OUR CEO

It has been a year of transition at AMHC. As I near my one year anniversary, each day I continue to be amazed by the extraordinary efforts of our employees to make a difference in the lives of those we serve. As our 55th anniversary comes to a close, I am pleased to provide you with the following highlights.

AMHC is participating in a pilot project with four other agencies around substance use disorder and a case management approach to serving clients. Called the Pleiades Project, this year-long effort will test a model of care designed to be a comprehensive backpack of services, centered on recovery principles using evidence-based practices. Support services are determined based on the individual’s strengths and challenges and are integrated into the treatment and aftercare process.

AMHC was selected to serve on a national Advancing Health Equity Learning Collaborative, a component of the Advancing Health Equity: Leading Care, Payment, and Systems Transformation program funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. Lorraine Chamberlain, Program Director of Integration and Behavioral Health in Aroostook County will represent AMHC. Representatives from Maine, Delaware, Illinois, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Washington were competitively selected to work together to reduce health disparities. For the next two years, the group will convene to design integrated health care delivery and payment models and then implement these efforts at health care delivery organizations and surrounding communities.

We entered into contracts with the State of Maine to provide Medication Assisted Treatment (MAT) clinics in Aroostook and Washington County jails. This critical program will assist inmates in having medication and behavioral health treatment in the jail and also receive community resources upon release.

I am pleased that our board of directors approved the purchase of our AMHC Outpatient Offices in Calais and Ellsworth. Owning the buildings will allow us to maintain a presence in the communities and continue to provide a wide variety of services.

AMHC has enhanced our employee benefits by joining the Maine Municipal Employees Health Trust. Membership in the health trust allows us to improve our health insurance coverage as well as offer other services that make for a more robust benefit package. We are excited to implement other benefits in 2020 and will continue to explore additional opportunities to enrich our overall package.

At Governor Mills’ request, the State of Maine held its first-ever State of Maine Opioid Summit. AMHC is pleased to participate in any event that will bring attention to the opioid epidemic and substance use disorder in general. A summit like this is long overdue and AMHC will continue to be a leader and advocate for those struggling with addiction.

In closing, I would like to thank our board chair, Athill Hebert, as well as AMHC’s board of directors, senior leadership team and all staff members for their support and encouragement. It is a privilege to work with you on behalf of the organization and the communities we serve.

Athill Hebert
Board Chairman
25-YEAR SERVICE AWARD

Dick began his service as an AMHC board member in 1994. Since that time he has held a variety of positions including board chairman. AMHC has benefited from both his 34-year career in Human Resources as well as his service on other boards including Maine Health Access Foundation and HealthInfoNet, of which he was a founding member.

“I became connected to AMHC when Fraser Paper developed its Employee Assistance Program,” shared Dick. “At that time I worked with Bob Vickers and Wes Davidson. I continue to be amazed by the staff and management of AMHC as they navigate the challenges of providing an array of services to the community with ever shrinking resources.”

Dick retired from Fraser Paper, Inc. in 2007 as Manager, Human Resources. He also served our country for three years in the U.S. Army as a Radio Systems Officer. He was assigned to duties in Germany and Vietnam, attaining the rank of captain prior to finishing his active duty. Dick received his Bachelor of Science degree from Northeastern University. In retirement, Dick works part-time as an alternative dispute resolution professional. He resides with his wife Lorraine in St. Agatha.

AMHC wishes to thank Dick for his many devoted years of service to the organization and the people we serve. We are grateful for his wisdom, insight and selflessly giving of his energy and time.
2019 RETIREES

Greg Disy
While AMHC was honored to recognize Greg’s accomplishments in our 2018 Annual Report, we want to once again share our thanks for his nearly four decades of service. Greg retired as CEO at the end of 2018.

He dedicated 38 years to AMHC clients, staff, and the communities we serve. Greg began as a Community Support Coordinator; advanced to the Residential Services Manager for Skyhaven, Madawaska Group Home, and the Caribou Apartments; then to the Director of Community Support Services; Chief Operating Officer; and finally as Chief Executive Officer beginning in 2010. Ellen Bemis, current AMHC CEO, shared the following: “Greg took over leadership of the agency during some of the most difficult financial struggles AMHC has experienced in recent history. He was successful in stabilizing the finances and on behalf of the board of directors and our staff, we are proud and grateful that he has positioned the agency to continue to offer integrated healthcare services that maximize an individual’s potential to recover and improve their quality of life.”

Gail Dodd, LADC
Gail served AMHC for nearly 28 years. She began her career in 1988 at the Residential Treatment Facility (RTF) in Limestone as a Housekeeper and Cook. In 1995, she assumed the position of Substance Abuse Counselor at RTF and became a Registered Alcohol and Drug Counselor the following year. After a brief hiatus, Gail rejoined RTF in 2005, becoming a Licensed Alcohol and Drug Counselor in 2006. She was recognized by her peers in 2015 for being essential to their success in making herself available to them day or night. Gail has impacted hundreds of lives in Aroostook County and beyond and we are grateful for her passion to help those in need.

Marie Marthe St. Pierre, OQMHP-CR, MHRT-I
Marthe retired after 19 years of service to the agency. She began her AMHC career in 2000 as a Residential Counselor. In 2002, Marthe found her calling when she became a Children’s Crisis Counselor for the Children’s Crisis Stabilization Unit (CCSU). She is passionate about issues that affect children and at-risk youth. In 2011, Marthe was recognized by her peers for being exceptional in her ability to promote CCSU services to internal and external customers, her strong leadership around case management functions, as well as consistent dedication and commitment to program enhancement. Marthe has always demonstrated a high level of energy, enthusiasm, and passion for children. AMHC and Aroostook County children and families are thankful for her dedicated service to the CCSU.
Community Care Team Services have been available in Washington and Aroostook Counties for nearly seven years. Cheryl Bachelder, RN, BSN, is the lead for AMHC’s CCT Services. This program supports MaineCare patients who frequently use an emergency department or have a high admission rate to the hospital due to a chronic health condition. CCT engages patients by helping them utilize self-management skills to attend to their chronic health diagnosis, improve their quality of life and reduce their need for hospitalization.

Amelia* is 59 and has diabetes, COPD, and suffers from schizophrenia. She and her husband live on $6,000 a year. When Amelia started with CCT, the focus was to get her blood sugar levels under control. For diabetics, it is important to keep A1C under 7% and Amelia’s was at 10%. Cheryl worked with Amelia to help her better understand the importance of counting carbohydrates with each meal as part of her daily routine. With Cheryl’s support, Amelia developed a detailed food log of everything she was eating and how it impacted her body. “Patient education was critical,” explains Cheryl. “We needed to make sure that cognitively Amelia understood her role and her ability to control how her body reacted to food.” After just a few months, Amelia’s A1C decreased to 6.8 and she lost 15 pounds.

Like many Mainers, Amelia and her husband are very proud and independent people. While their house needed several repairs, they were reluctant to ask for help but Cheryl was successful in obtaining a grant to help with those repairs. Thanks to Cheryl and the CCT program, this couple has a better quality of life in a safe environment, allowing them to maintain their independence.

Whether it’s medication management, life skills or helping to connect a person to resources that meet basic needs, AMHC Community Care Teams are making a significant difference in the lives of their clients while also reducing the cost of healthcare.

Located between a wood grove and large rolling fields in beautiful Northern Maine is AMHC’s Residential Treatment Facility (RTF). In tribute to its heritage, RTF is affectionately known as “The Farm.” Opened in 1975, it is the only 28-day treatment facility in the State of Maine that serves both men and women ages 18 and older. RTF is ADA accessible and serves up to 150 individuals per year. In 2020, it will celebrate 45 years of service.

“The RTF is special for many reasons,” said Rebecca Fournier, RTF Site Coordinator. “The staff is a tightly woven group that goes above and beyond their defined roles.” For example, when a client arrives at the bus station on a cold January night they will most likely be greeted by Sylvio Dubois in his Buffalo Bill fur coat and Russian hat. By the time they arrive at RTF, Sylvio’s charming personality and warm vehicle have put a nervous individual at ease. Henry Ward, who integrates his Native American cultural traditions from the MICMAC Tribe, has introduced the RTF to Wellbriety, a movement which seeks to break the cycle of hurt caused by substance use, with an emphasis on Native Spiritual traditions. When clients are celebrating holidays away from their loved ones the staff ensure that special touches are provided. Christmas stockings are stuffed, Easter eggs are hidden, Thanksgiving brings everyone together to prepare a large meal, and sometimes Darth Vader makes an appearance spreading the message that ‘the force is strong in them.’

This intensely structured program includes seven hours of group treatment daily, covering a variety of topics on substance use disorder, recovery enhancement and relapse prevention as well as weekly Family Group sessions. Local recovery communities including Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous have on-site weekly and monthly meetings, allowing clients to learn about these supportive resources.

RTF clients are removed from the daily distractions of television and all electronics. Their days are filled with therapeutic group services, biblio-therapy (the art of using books to aid people in solving the issues they are facing), and therapeutic journaling. Residents are assigned chores to help them understand the importance of attending to the responsibilities of daily living. In addition, clients are encouraged to go on 20 minute walks daily. Many have reported having calming spiritual experiences while walking, snowshoeing or cross country skiing through the peaceful fields.

Clients read and watch assigned educational, inspirational and thought provoking material concerning substance use recovery. They write reports on this material and then share those reports with the group, helping one another retain the information and share different perspectives. As important, maintaining a daily journal is a key aspect of the program. During their individual sessions with staff, residents share what they have written. The goal is that they will develop journaling as a helpful tool that will continue after leaving treatment.

Integrated services are brought in to provide support, information and education to the residents including Pines Health Services; AMHC Sexual Assault Services; Hope and Justice, a program that provides domestic abuse support; as well as Roads to Recovery Community Center in Caribou and Aroostook Recovery Center of Hope in Houlton.

RTF supports the surrounding communities by partnering with the social work programs offered at the University of Maine at Presque Isle and University of Maine at Fort Kent to provide internships for social work students. RTF also offers in-house sessions with local law enforcement regarding substance use disorder treatment. A highlight of the year is the Annual Alumni and Recovery Community Picnic held on the second Sunday in September. For anyone who benefits from RTF, they appreciate the staff and the treatment they receive and fondly remember their time at “The Farm.”
Todd is in his mid-50s and has struggled for many years with substance use. Earlier this year he was assessed by AMHC’s Emergency Support Services while in the hospital receiving treatment for alcohol consumption. Todd was considered a great candidate for the Pleiades Project, a one year pilot program offered through AMHC’s Presque Isle Outpatient Office. The project, which includes AMHC and four other agencies known as the Alliance for Addiction and Mental Health Services Collaborative, is to research the effectiveness of offering a team approach to substance use treatment services including care coordination, peer recovery services and substance use counselors.

Once introduced to the program, Todd readily agreed to be part of it. From the time the referral was made by AMHC’s Emergency Support Services, Todd took advantage of the services recommended to him. “The Pleiades Project minimizes the barriers that sometimes occur when trying to offer comprehensive wrap-around services,” explains Tammy Barnhart, AMHC Substance Abuse Counselor. “Todd’s support has included individual counseling and group therapy. In addition, his care coordination team has assisted him in applying for MaineCare, obtaining Food Supplement, completing a Social Security application and attending to his transportation needs. Todd’s chances of long-term success have greatly increased thanks to this multi-provider approach.”

Clients participating in the Pleiades Project are regularly assessed for any additional services that are needed. “The more I get to know my clients the better I understand what will be most beneficial for them,” explains Tammy. “For Todd, in addition to the support noted above, I also requested medication management as well as mental health and peer recovery services. Being able to offer services that will give him the best chance at recovery is an approach I wish for all my clients.”

Like anyone in recovery, Todd has his ups and downs. The recent death of a loved one and the illness of another have caused setbacks. However, his support team is helping him through it. They are quick to reach out if he has not followed through with his weekly check-in. He knows they care and it’s this compassion and the new skills they are teaching him that will help Todd get through challenging times.

The Pleiades Project is confirming our understanding that it can be incredibly difficult for those desperately seeking to change their lives from substance use. This project has helped ensure that when individuals are ready to make changes, our providers are ready to offer them the appropriate treatment and care coordination. It is demonstrating that there is hope for individuals like Todd, and with the right support they can work toward achieving the life they desire.

IN MEMORY OF

Judy Adler

March 23, 1963 - November 1, 2019

Judy Adler, Accounts Receivable Supervisor, lost her courageous battle with cancer on November 1, 2019. A resident of New Sweden, Judy is survived by her husband, Timothy Adler and daughter, Emily Adler.

This year marked Judy's fifth anniversary with AMHC. She cared deeply for the organization and its mission to help others. As a leader, Judy demonstrated patience, kindness and compassion. She was a mentor, taking the time and care needed to ensure her team knew how to do their jobs well. Thanks to her special kind of encouragement they have learned confidence and competence that extends beyond their work lives.

Judy found great joy in baking for her colleagues, almost as much as they found in enjoying her special treats. And they loved frequent updates about her daughter Emily, and all of her activities. Judy's life has been a gift to so many at AMHC. She is sorely missed for her friendship, professionalism, her courage and her work ethic. These qualities will be her legacy and will live on through her work family.
